

INNOCENT BOYS ARE SHOT DOWN

NEW PEACE MOVES IN RAIL STRIKE STARTED

HOPE FOLLOWS ANNOUNCEMENT OF GOVERNMENT

Drastic Injunction Not To Be Enforced Literally Says Daugerty

HOLD CONFERENCE

Federal Officials Declare They Have No Hand In Parleys.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Decision by the administration that the drastic Daugherty injunction against the striking railway shopmen is not to be enforced literally—to the point of abridgment of free speech and lawful peaceful assembly—was accomplished today by a flurry of reports that new peace moves are afoot to end the nine weeks' strike of the federated shop crafts.

These new peace moves, definite confirmation of which was lacking, were reported to hinge about the efforts of B. M. Jewell, chairman of the shopcraft unions; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, a pronounced "moderate" among the executives; and T. Dewitt Cuyler, head of the association of railway executives.

It was reported in Washington early today that a conference of railway executives will be summoned to meet either in Washington or New York before the week is out to again start the machinery of adjustment to grinding.

Unusual secrecy surrounded the renewed efforts at adjustment. While details of the reported peace overtures were lacking this morning, the fact that both sides have apparently recognized the need of mutual adjustment was looked upon as a favorable and significant factor in the strike deadlock.

Government officials were quick to disclaim that they had any hand in directing the peace undercurrent. If new moves are on foot, it was said, they emanate entirely from the two parties to the controversy and not from the government.

As a result of the widespread criticism of those features of the Daugherty injunction which would prohibit meetings of strikers and public utterances by their leaders, it is probable that the government will voluntarily accept a modification of the restraining order when the matter comes before Judge Wilkerson in Chicago next Monday.

President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty were both on record today as opposed to any enforcement of the injunction to the point where it conflicts with the constitutional guarantees of free speech and the right of lawful, peaceful assembly.

The sole object of the injunction, Attorney General Daugherty said, was to prevent violence and disorder and to prevent physical interference with transportation. He took the view today that the court's order already has resulted in a marked diminution of disorder. Appeals for deputies have been slower since last Friday than at any time since the strike began, Daugherty said.

It is the policy of Administration to disregard the "oratory" of labor leaders about the injunction, at least no punitive steps are in contemplation against those who have launched bitter verbal attacks against the instrument.

STEPHENS LEADING J. K. VARDAMAN

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 6.—Although early returns gave Hubert Stephens a lead over former U. S. Senator James K. Vardaman in their senatorial run off primary, adherents of the former senator early today refused to accept the figures as indicative of the final result.

Vardaman's strength has always been in the country districts, many of which had not been heard from at an early hour. Estimates at that time gave Stephens a lead of about 8,000 votes.

BIBLE STUDENTS MEET AT CEDAR POINT, OHIO

Cedar Point, O., Sept. 6.—Ten thousand bible students are here today for the annual international convention of the International Bible Students Association. The convention will continue up to and including Sept. 13 with three, daily sessions. A special arriving from New York today brought small groups from 17 foreign countries.

TURKISH EMPIRE MAY BE RESTORED TO FORMER STATUS

French Officialdom Sympathetic With Nationalists Favors Plan

Paris, Sept. 6.—Practically all of the old Turkish empire which was partitioned among the powers after the world war, may be restored, according to information from official sources today.

French officialdom, which is openly sympathetic with the Turkish nationalists, with whom France has a treaty, is in favor of revision of the treaty of Sevres.

"The allied arms make it possible to enforce the treaty of Versailles but the treaty of Sevres cannot be enforced," said one official. "France desires to restore all of Asia Minor, Thrace and Constantinople to the Turks. Then let France and Great Britain return to their pre-war relationship with Turkey."

The treaty of Sevres has never been ratified.

STEAMER ON FIRE; TWO ARE FATALLY INJURED

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 6.—One man has been killed and another is believed to be dying here today as the result of a fire on the American steamship Coltraps. The Coltraps, 3,126 tons, is lying in the harbor and probably will be a total loss.

Cost of Food Coming Down Labor Department Reports

Despite Strike and Other Industrial Disorders, Decline in Prices From July 15 to August 15 Ranges From One to Five Per Cent.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Despite the rail strike and other industrial disorders, the cost of food is coming down, the labor department announced today.

For the period July 15 to August 15 the decline ranged from five per cent in Milwaukee and Springfield, Ills., to one per cent in Richmond, Portland, Me., Los Angeles and Dallas.

A decline of four per cent in the retail cost of food was reported by Indianapolis, Peoria, St. Louis and St. Paul, while Chicago, Kansas City, Manchester, Omaha and Philadelphia, the decrease amounted to 3 per cent. In Baltimore, Bridgeport, Buffalo, Detroit, New Haven, New York, Providence Rochester and Washington, D. C., the decrease was 2 per cent.

During the period of August 15, 1921 to August 15, 1922, the cost of food in these cities decreased as follows: Kansas City and Manchester,

COAL GAMBLING NOW PRACTICED SAY SENATORS

Unscrupulous Brokers and Speculators Blamed In the Senate

SEEK FEDERAL HELP Urge Passage of Bill to Give Commission Authority

Washington, Sept. 6.—Gambling in coal is being engaged in today on a big scale by unscrupulous brokers and speculators who have turned from wheat, cotton and other forms of speculation in a systematic attempt to extort exorbitant profits from the country's dire need for fuel, Senators charged today.

Senator Cummins, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee says that in his state of Iowa $22 a ton is now being exacted for coal shipped from other states.

He urged the passage of the bill to give the Interstate Commerce Commission blanket authority to distribute coal and curb profiteering as a necessary step toward controlling speculation in coal.

"Outrageously high prices for coal are not only being charged in my state but everywhere that coal is needed," Cummins said.

"I know of one concern that intends to hold all the coal it can for the highest possible prices when cold weather sets in," said Senator Kellogg, Republican of Minnesota. He warned against hoarders as well as profiteers, as a national menace and declared the bill, which the senate again had before it today, should be passed without "any more quibbling or delay."

Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, said he not only intended to offer a bill making it a penitentiary offense to gamble or speculate in coal during a fuel emergency like the present one but to ask for a senatorial investigation that would "either unmask the coal robbers and crooks, or force them to disgorge their ill-gotten gains."

Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, said he thought the amendment proposed by him to the bill which would require coal operators to furnish the department of commerce with bi-weekly reports of the amount of coal mined and shipped, and the prices received for it, would prove "very helpful" in keeping coal prices down.

TWENTY THREE DIE IN OHIO FIRES

Columbus, Sept. 6.—Twenty-three Ohio people were burned to death and 76 injured by fires during August, according to the monthly report of fire Marshal Dykeman made public today. Seven young children were killed and 15 maimed for life, he reports. In addition, one young girl was burned to death by a sparkler, and two boys were blinded, probably for life, by fire crackers. Playing with matches caused the death of two little girls, while the clothes of another caught fire from a bonfire about which she was playing.

"Lightheaded caused the death of six people," Dykeman states. "One man was asphyxiated by burned gas fumes in his garage, and two aviators met death from gasoline when their plane dashed to the earth."

HEAD OF STATE REFORM SCHOOL AT LANCASTER IS DISMISSED

Lack of Personal Supervision On Part of Captain Hastings Results in "Loose, Inadequate Administration" Committee Finds

Columbus, Sept. 6.—Captain R. U. Hastings was today dismissed as superintendent of the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, effective Monday, Sept. 11, by Director of Public Welfare Macayael, Columbus, Supt. T. C. Jenkins, of the Mansfield Reformatory was immediately appointed by Director Macayael to take temporary charge of the Lancaster school until a permanent appointment is made.

Lack of personal supervision and personal contact, on the part of Captain Hastings, resulting in "a loose, inadequate and ineffective administration" and "excessive, indiscriminate and uncontrolled punishment," was the manner in which Director Macayael summed up the charges upon which he based his discharge of Hastings.

"Further charges are likely," declared Macayael, today. "I intend to completely reorganize the school, until I think that conditions are right again."

Captain Hastings, under the law, has 30 days in which to appeal his dismissal to the state civil service commission for a hearing.

The removal of Captain Hastings, following nine years' service as head of the state reform school at Lancaster, resulted from two recent investigations. The first completed July 6, was conducted by the Ohio Institute of Public Efficiency, headed by R. C. Miles, Columbus. This department, which is not connected officially with state departments but is maintained solely through public contributions, reported at the end of their investigation to Macayael that "inhuman and barbarous" treatment of the boys existed at the school.

Macayael immediately appointed a second committee headed by L. C. Shaw, Akron, chairman of the new prison commission and former vice president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Akron.

Other members of the board were: C. H. Mayhugh, Columbus, of the Ohio Institute of Public Efficiency; H. F. Moyer, Dayton, manager of Industrial Relations, Miami Conservancy District; Fred E. Croxton, Columbus, Ohio State University; Walter R. Hammer, Springfield, Department of Public Welfare and S. C. Griffin, Columbus, Department of Public Welfare.

This committee began their investigation at the school on July 9 and conducted a thorough examination for approximately 12 days. More than 1,000 boy inmates and the majority of the officers and employees of the school were interviewed by the investigators. Formal testimony of 39 of the boys and 36 of the officers and employees was taken. An 83 page report and 580 page of testimony were submitted to Macayael by the committee at the conclusion of the hearing.

The committee report stressed Captain Hastings' apparent lack of knowledge of what was transpiring at the school. Instances of where officers admitted that such punishment as pulling hair, striking, slapping and beating the bare feet of the boys were cited notwithstanding direct orders from the superintendent that family officers refrain from corporal punishment.

The committee also deplored the fact that the organization was so operated that there was no one in

SCHOOLS HOUSE 32,470

Columbus, Sept. 6.—A total registration of 32,470 children was recorded at the local schools on opening day. These figures exceed last year's opening by 1,053.

School officials predict a 4 per cent increase in attendance this year. Many pupils have not returned, as yet from their vacations, it was stated.

ONE KILLED AND THREE WOUNDED AS RESULT OF SHERIFF'S RAID

Feeling Running High Following Shooting By Sheriff and Deputies of Lads Engaged In Playing Joke On Wilmington Pike

BOYS ARE TAKEN FOR HIGHWAYMEN

Shots Fired at Crowd Find Their Mark as Youths Scatter When Officials Open Fire About Nine O'clock Tuesday Night.

Tragedy stalked with death on the trail of nine happy youths who sought diversion in playing boyish pranks along the Wilmington pike, three and one-half miles from Xenia, at nine o'clock Tuesday night, when a passing motorist interpreted their practical joke as an attempt at highway robbery and notified county authorities. In the subsequent shooting one boy was killed, his brother probably fatally shot and two others wounded, one seriously.

The dead boy is Volney Nichols, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Nichols, of a mile and one-half from Xenia on the Wilmington pike, who was shot through the neck as he fled through the woods to avoid the officers' bullets, and was instantly killed. The injured are: Dorsey Nichols, 16, brother of Volney, who lives at the same address, and who was shot seriously twice. One bullet struck him in the small of the back, piercing his body, with the possibility of having passed through his stomach. The other entered the back just below the right shoulder blade and is lodged somewhere in his body, either in the lung or in the fleshy part of his right chest; Warren Middleton, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middleton, Wilmington pike, whose left arm below the elbow was torn to pieces by a missile, the bone shattered and the end of the third finger on the left hand shot off; Clarence Keiter, aged 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Keiter, Wilmington pike, who was struck by a deflected bullet in the left leg below the knee.

As the details of the tragic shooting spread over the city Wednesday morning, mob violence was threatened by groups who gathered on street corners, and kept up the agitation of sentiment against Sheriff Funderburgh, whom they hold responsible for the killing. Charges of murder in the first degree were freely spoken in the crowd. The agitation at noon had led to the point where Chief of Police M. E. Graham especially deputized a number of extra policemen in order to forestall violence. Six or eight extra policemen, including Former Chief James Canaday, Former Patrolmen Had Karch and Ed Wilkins and Pennsylvania Railroad Detective Cliff Latimer, were among those sworn in by the department to assist in dispersing crowds where the feeling against the sheriff was running high. Sentiment over the county following the shooting was thrown to the grief-stricken parents of the boys who were victims of the officers' guns. A boyish prank that deserved commendation for its originality, that drew laughs from motorists who "bit," and which was representative of the outpouring of effervescent youth always seeking some new form of amusement, led to the tragic shooting. Hidden behind piles of wood near the old Weaver saw mill on the Wilmington pike, the boys manipulated a wire, to which they had fastened an old automobile tire, wrapped in paper to represent a new one. The tire they would place in the middle of the road and when the curious motorist stopped and attempted to pick it up, the boys would jerk it from his grasp from their vantage point. Invariably, they said, the motorist would laugh and one said, "Boys, that's a good one. If there was any place around here I

SHOOTS WIFE AND THEN TAKES OWN LIFE IN PRESENCE OF CHILDREN

Face to Face With Husband Whose Mind Was Affected, Mrs. Luther F. Violett is Shot to Death When She Refuses to Choose Weapon Offered.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 6.—Face to face with a husband whose mind was affected by illness and brooding until it had conceived the idea of a duel to the death, Mrs. Bertha Violett, 40, wife of Luther F. Violett, a well-to-do lumber salesman, was shot to death last night in the locked and barricaded bedroom of her sumptuous Westwood home when she refused to choose her weapon from two pistols offered her.

After sending five bullets into his wife's body, Violett turned one of the guns on himself, inflicting a wound in the left temple which resulted in his death early this morning at the city hospital. There were six empty shells in the two weapons found by the police beside the man and his slain wife, so that all of the shots fired found their mark. Two of the bullets passed through Mrs. Violett's left arm, one went entirely through her body after entering the left chest, the fourth lodged in her abdomen and the fifth through her body from the back.

In the room with Violett and his wife were two of their four children, Dorothy, 6, and Burton, 5, the other two being on vacation at their grandmother's home in Paris, Ky. Burton was asleep and Dorothy was just dozing off, she told the police, when she heard her mother scream and then the reports of the pistols.

"Daddy was holding both guns," she said, "when I sat up to see what was scaring mamma. Then all at once both of them fell over on the floor. I tried to wake them up but mamma was awful quiet and daddy lay there breathing terribly loud and wouldn't answer a thing I said."

Relatives of Violett told the police that the man had brooded a lot because he thought he had tuberculosis and malignant cancer. He suffered from a delusion that his wife was not true to him, they said, though both they and the near neighbors declared that her conduct was above reproach. Violett had threatened to kill his wife and himself on several occasions but receipts found in his pocket showed that he had bought the two revolvers recently and apparently had conceived the duel idea as a proper solution for his troubles.

EFFORTS MADE TO RELEASE CULP FROM DAYTON WORKHOUSE MAY SUCCEED

Dayton, O., Sept. 6.—If Rev. Walter W. Culp can get out of the Work-House he will accept a regular job in Indiana and move his family of wife and nine children to that state. Attorneys today attacked the affidavit against Culp holding that it was a plea of guilty.

Culp eloped from Springfield, Mo., with Esther Hughes, was apprehended in Michigan, brought back and entered a plea of guilty. He was sentenced to a year, which he is now serving in the Dayton Workhouse.

Culp says he'll go straight if given the opportunity.

NO CHANCE TO CANCEL FOREIGN DEBT SAYS U. S.

suggestion of American
Bankers' Association
Not Approved

MUST PAY IN FULL

Mellon Issues Significant
Statement Replying to Plan.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Sentiment developed at the annual meeting of the American Bankers' Association in New York this week for closer cooperation with Europe and the cancellation in part at least, of the $11,000,000,000 owed the United States by foreign governments, beat against the unyielding stone wall of congressional opposition today.

"Not a chance" was the burden of the replies of many congressional leaders to the arguments advanced by the bankers for more American participation in European affairs and the writing off by the American debt funding commission of a large amount of European obligations.

It was looked upon as significant today that following the bankers' resolution advocating extreme leniency with European debtors, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon hastened to assert that the United States looked to every European nation to pay its obligations in full, and that no differentiation would be made between debts incurred for the purchase of food and those incurred for munitions purchases.

In making this statement, Mr. Mellon, who also is chairman of the Debt Funding Commission, was merely interpreting the opinion of an overwhelming majority of congress, it was asserted today by congressional leaders.

Without regard to party lines, senators and congressmen endorsed the statement of Mellon today asserting that under no circumstances will this congress or the next congress consent to the cancellation of any of the foreign indebtedness.

Senators who have lately returned from abroad, among them Senator Ladd of North Dakota, Senator Caraway of Arkansas and a number of house members are violently opposed to America's dipping in abroad.

"Writing off America's claim" would merely give them more means to keep up their expensive military establishments," said Senator Caraway. "The American congress will never endorse such a plan."

The debt funding commission under existing law, is under the express mandate to negotiate complete settlement of foreign indebtedness within 25 years the debtors in the meantime to pay interest at the rate of 4-4-4 percent.

Only congress itself can change this law, and a canvass of congressional opinion disclosed no sentiment toward modifying the terms.

OFFICIALS SEEKING TO FIND OUT WHERE WOMAN USED MONEY

Bootlegging, 'Bucket Shops' and Races are Theories
Now Advanced.

Pomeroy, Ohio, Oct. 6.—More than 100 Meigs County residents were summoned to appear before the grand jury investigating the financial transactions of Mrs. Susane Kraus, alleged "woman Ponzi" today. Included in the number are some of the most prominent citizens of this county.

Mrs. Kraus has asked that a priest be sent to her cell in the county jail. Father P. C. Schneider, pastor of the local church, is expected to refuse his ministrations.

Pomeroy, O., Oct. 6.—Was the easy money promised to investors by Mrs. Susan Kraus, while haired former church worker, now in jail awaiting the action of the grand jury on charges of embezzlement and forgery to have been made by the illicit sale of liquor?

Did "bucket shops" receive the cash entrusted to the much-loved woman by her associates in this little town or did the playing of "sure thing" tips on the races account for the loss of $400,000 by her?

These three questions are expected to be answered late today when the Meigs County Grand Jury announces the result of its investigation of the financial transactions of the "woman Ponzi", who has been borrowing money for twelve years giving to her creditors promises of large returns.

M. A. Kraus, son of the financial "wizardess" was again arrested late last night, following the return of true bills against him by the grand jury charging forgery and uttering a forged instrument. He is former secretary of the Meigs County Building and Loan Association and the indictment grew out of the alleged forging of the name of A. V. Wadsworth to a note for $554. Kraus was permitted to return to his home for the night and was to appear at 9 o'clock this morning to plead to the indictment.

FEAR OF WAR IN ASIA MINOR BLAZES FORTH AGAIN; TURKS ARE TRUCULENT

BRITISH ANTICIPATE ATTACK AT CHANAC SIDE OF DARDANELLES

Collapse of Conference at Mudania Reveals Turkey in Ugly Frame of Mind—Seek to Dictate Terms as "Conquerors."

Constantinople, Oct. 6.—The Near East armistice conference which entered sudden deadlock at Mudania is to be resumed on Sunday or Monday, according to information received here today.

No sooner had word been received that the conference had broken down than information began to filter in that the Turkish troops would occupy the neutral zone at the Mediterranean south of this city.

It is believed that the allied representatives will take today and tomorrow to consult with their home governments, pending renewal of the negotiations.

The chief obstacles are:

- 1—Refusal of the Greeks to withdraw from Thrace.
- 2—Insistence of the Turks that they occupy Constantinople and Adrianople immediately.

London, Oct. 6.—Fears of war in Asia Minor again blazed forth today in the wake of the collapse of the Turco-Allied conferences at Mudania. It was admitted by Downing street officials that the British fear an offensive by the Turks against the British at Chanak, on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles.

The British declare that Henri Franklin-Bouillon, Franco-British Italian pacification emissary, was responsible for the breakdown of the Mudania conferences because he had influenced the Turks to make demands that were impossible.

The public was stunned by the sudden collapse of the negotiations as hopes had been raised that the parley was on the point of signing an agreement.

General Harrington reported that the Turks were demanding their own terms feeling that the victory over the Greeks gave them the right to speak as "conquerors."

Lord Curzon departed for Paris this evening to consult with Premier Poincare upon the latest near east developments.

Following the breakdown of the Near East armistice conference at Mudania, Gen. Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief in Turkey telegraphed to the cabinet that the "Turks were in a most truculent frame of mind." It was indicated that the Turks were threatening hostilities immediately. It was explained at Premier Lloyd George's office at 10 Downing Street that the collapse of the negotiations had been brought about by the insistence of the Turks that matters be taken up that Gen. Harrington had no authority to discuss.

The chief cause of the break up of the deliberations was said to have been eastern Thrace. The Turks demanded the right to establish civil administration in eastern Thrace immediately fearing that diplomacy might rob them of some of their claims in that district if they waited until after the peace conference.

When he saw that the negotiations were headed for collapse General Harrington sent a telegram to the British cabinet explaining the situation.

News that the conference had

U. S. GOVERNMENT AT TACKS COST PLUS CONTRACTS IN SUIT AGAINST DAYTON-WRIGHT

Vast Sums are Alleged to have Been Fraudulently Paid
Company By Federal Officials—
During War.

Dayton, O., Oct. 6.—In suing the Dayton Wright Airplane Company to recover $2,408,267 alleged to have been overpaid, the United States government attacks the validity of cost plus contracts entered into during the war and may be made the basis for further actions, it was stated today.

The government contends it was under no obligation to pay a bonus over and above the fair profit stipulated, and that in this particular instance the defendant company rendered no service for which that amount was to be paid.

It was indicated that all Dayton firms with one exception, doing war work accepted cost plus contracts. It is believed that if the court renders a decision favorable to the government similar actions will be instituted against other Dayton concerns.

Alleged acts of fraud recited in the petition are the collection of $30,685.22 paid by the government for the operation of Triangle Park, collection of $137,718.85 for railroad transportation of employees from Dayton to the plant at Moraine City, $47,944 which the government claims was paid under the pretense that such payment was authorized under the contract returns of $638,317 for special depreciation, when no such depreciation existed and $60,130 for alleged public accounting when no such accounting was done.

TWO HUNDRED MEN WILL GO ON TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Monday to See Opening of Case Against West Virginia Miners.

Wellsburg, W. Va., Oct. 6.—Beginning next Monday, Oct. 9 more than 200 men, most of whom are union coal miners will be placed on trial in Brook County Circuit Court on charges of murder and inciting a riot at Cliftonville, W. Va., on July 17 when sheriff H. H. Duval and seven union miners were slain.

Out of the 216 indictments returned recently, all except possibly fifty of the defendants are still held in the Brooke and Ohio County jails. Seventy-eight are held without bond for first degree murder.

The trials are expected to cover a period of many weeks. Especially is that true if the indicted men ask for separate trials and this will probably be done. According to Attorney John D. Gardner, Steubenville, chief counsel for the union mine workers of America, it is also anticipated that the defendants will ask a change of venue which will be strenuously opposed by Prosecuting Attorney W. S. Wilkin of Brook County.

The indictments resulted from a riot when a small force of deputies and guards headed by Sheriff Duval were attacked by hundreds of miners following a long march. The attacking party set fire to the mining property. Sheriff Duval was shot through the head and seven others were slain several of the bodies not being found for several days.

STILLMAN FINDING STANDS APPROVED

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Approving and confirming the findings and recommendations of Referee Daniel J. Gleason in favor of Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, in the suit for divorce brought against her by James A. Stillman, the banker, Supreme Court Justice Morschauer today handed down his decision. The referee's report also upheld the legitimacy of Guy Stillman, the banker having denied the paternity of the infant.

MRS. CULP ISSUES APPEAL FOR AID IN INDIANA

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 6.—Rev. W. W. Culp, of Spring Valley, Ohio, who arrived at Napanee, near here a few days ago to join his wife and nine children after being released from the workhouse in Xenia, Ohio, where he served a four months' sentence for having deserted his family and eloped with his 18-year-old choir leader, with whom he was found at Tashmoo Park, Mich., today agreed to return to Xenia October 10 to answer a grand jury indictment charging him with having removed mortgaged property, an automobile, from the state. The Culp family of 11 is occupying rooms over a Napanee grocery store. Mrs. Culp made a public appeal for help, explaining she is without funds to pay expenses. Culp has quit the ministry and taken a job as a cabinet maker in a factory in Napanee.

THEY PILOT HUGE MONOPLANE USED TO SET NEW SUSTAINED FLIGHT RECORD

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 6.—Giant army monoplane T-2 at 7 o'clock this morning had been circling above San Diego for 25 hours in an effort to break the world's sustained flight record, and was "still going strong" according to Rockwell field officials. Pilots Kelly and MacReady are now within an hour of equalling the record of 26 hours 11 minutes made at Berlin by an Austrian flier in 1920. They expect to fly as long as their gasoline supply lasts. Fog yesterday halted a non-stop flight to New York. This will be undertaken early next month.

The monoplane—largest in existence—will carry 750 gallons of gas for the flight, that is expected to occupy thirty-six hours. It has a wingspread of eighty-one feet and makes 100 miles an hour. Lieutenant MacReady holds the world's altitude record of 40,800 feet.

AMERICAN SHIPS NOT PERMITTED TO SELL LIQUOR

Government and Privately Owned Vessels are

"LAW FOLLOWS FLAG"

So Rules Attorney General
U. S. Deficit Increased
By Decision.

Washington, Oct. 6.—All American ships, whether owned as well as those operated by the government, will be prohibited as law carriers of any liquor by an opinion of Attorney General Daugherty expected to be made public within a few days.

The attorney general is under orders to take the position that "law follows the flag." This means that liquor sales which have boosted American shipping during the war will be stopped, and thousands of over seas passengers will seek other routes on which liquor owned ships are allowed to dispense the cup "nations without legal limitation."

The shipping board today estimated that its loss on that account probably will increase the government deficit by many thousands of dollars. Chairman Lasker is reconciled to the attorney general's decision and said he would await a final adjudication of the matter by the supreme court.

Shipping board revenues have increased about 400 per cent since Mr. Lasker's legal adviser decided to allow shipping board ships to possess and sell liquor for beverage purposes. Records show that many millions of dollars in passenger receipts were realized by diverting the "thrifty American traffic" to vessels operated by the shipping board in the trans-oceanic routes.

Attorney General Daugherty said today that his opinion is designed to clear up most of the involved questions on liquor smuggling, but admittedly sideslipping the issue of foreign ships, will be ready for Secretary of the Treasury Mellon within a few days. What he will actually decide will be known only when that opinion is made public. Several revisions of the opinion have been made at the suggestion of the state department. The British embassy still is vigorous in prosecuting complaints against British boat seizures, and is at war with the state department over return of British owners of millions of dollars worth of rum confiscated by American agents.

GIANTS WIN 3 TO 0 HAVE 2 GAME LEAD

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Yankees	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	1
Giants	0	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	x	3	12	1

Batteries: Giants—Scott, E. Smith; Yanks—Hoyt, Jones, Schang.

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The decried and discarded John Scott, released by the Cincinnati Reds last spring because his old soup bone refused to do its stuff any more, had risen to the pinnacle of a World Series hero today when with John McGraw's Giants back of him he opened the door for the National's second victory over the New York Americans in the series by a score of 3 to 0.

As the fifth frame hove into view at this writing, old John was still setting them down in rapid order, while his vicious teammates had helped him along by getting to the dazzling slants of young Waite Hoyt for a pair of markers in the third stanza. The pitching of Scott, a discard, bears evidence of the ability of McGraw in handling pitchers.

The Giants went out and got their quota of runs in the third frame to give John Scott something to work on. In this stanza, Scott started the fireworks himself, when he singled to centerfield. Bancroft also singled past second base. Groh hit to Hoyt, who caught Scott on a run down between third and home, Bancroft taking third during the marathon, while Grah perched on second. Frisch sacrificed to centerfield, Bancroft scoring with the first run of the game and Groh taking third. E. Muesel then singled to right sending Groh home with the second run, but Young forced Muesel at second for the third out.

The Yankees threatened most seriously in the first half of the seventh. Pipp was tossed out by Frisch, but R. Muesel got a scratch hit which bounded over Scott's head and Schang doubled, sending Muesel to third. Elmer Smith batted for Ward and fanned, and Scott was tossed out by Bancroft for the third out, killing the Yankee rally.

The Giants scored one more in their stanza of the seventh, Bancroft romping across the plate on Frisch's single to right field. Smith was out. Scott followed suit. Bancroft walked, Groh singled to right field advancing Bancroft to third. Score Giants 3, Yankees 0.

A roaring, happy, festive crowd, filling the grand stands and bleachers to their ample reaches, turned out for the third game of New York's private fight between the Giants and the Yankees for the world's championship this afternoon. It was mute vindication for Judge Kenesaw Mountain and the sport he represents and rules, for the players of both sides and for the umpires, who precipitated the disorders of yesterday when the game was called because darkness impended rather than existed.

It was a flare back of the ugly insinuations, cast at the commissioner and all connected with the game in question the open charges, openly voiced, that Umpire Hildebrand called a halt merely to prolong the series and enrich the local exchequers. These charges have since been refuted by the fact that the entire receipts of the game have been turned over to charity, and if public confidence waned yesterday it was restored today.

Baseball here was on trial, for its afternoon.

At an early hour there was no evidence of a clamoring at the gates but this was hardly to be expected. The furor of opening day was not to be continued indefinitely.

Many of the more irate citizens intimated yesterday that they would wait forever. However, it remained to be seen whether this determination would be carried out in the face of the politic move to wipe the entire slate clean as far as the questioned game was concerned. Behind that move is seen the diplomatic hand of Judge Landis.

A very disturbed man, he had been mad, the innocent victim of a wild demonstration and he it was who was best able to judge the temper of the crowd. He called a meeting of the club owners and while the proceedings were not open to the public, it is to be assumed that he suggested the plan, whereby charity and not baseball was to be the sole beneficiary from the 3 to 3 tie game.

Beyond explaining that the umpires were the sole judge of conditions on the ball field, the commissioner declined to comment on the merits or demerits of Hildebrand's decision.

San Diego, Oct. 6.—The world's sustained flight record was broken here today by Lieut. Oakley Kelly and John MacReady when they kept the new army monoplane T-2 in the air longer than 26 hours and eleven minutes mark made at Berlin in 1920. At 3:30 they were still circling over the city and Rockwell field. Officials expressed the belief that they would remain aloft until their fuel supply is exhausted, sometime this

EXTREMISTS HOLD ALL CITY BUILDINGS

Rome, Oct. 6.—Premier Facta has decided to resign, his political advisers revealed today. He has suggested former Premier Giolitti as the "only practicable man to deal with the crisis precipitated by the activities of the fascisti in the north."

Rome, Oct. 6.—Italian troops in Trentino and other territory that was taken from Austria are being reinforced today to prevent hostilities between the fascisti and the socialist-bolshevist faction of extremists.

Leaders among the social extremists are openly demanding revolution. Among this extremist branch of the organization is Signor Serrati, editor of Avanti, and one of the most outspoken of the radicals.

Fears are sweeping the country that civil war may be precipitated. Members of the fascisti deny that they are preparing for war but all the indications are that they are plotting to get absolute control of the government within the next three months.

LAUGHEAD'S BOOK ATTRACTS FAVORABLE CRITICISM

The booklet, "Paul Bunyan, and his Big Blue Ox," recounting the wonderful exploits of that legendary lumberman of the great Northwest, written and illustrated by Will B. Laughhead, former Xenian, has attracted much complimentary attention from the press of the country.

The Kansas City Star devoted nearly one-half of its editorial page in one issue to a commendatory review of the book, an generous space was given it by the New York Sun and Minneapolis Tribune. Many literary authorities interested in Folk-lore, are said to be showing great interest in these legends of Paul Bunyan, whom they call the "only American Lyth."

In his booklet Mr. Laughhead has compiled many of the anecdotes concerning this fictitious character, detailing his marvelous adventures with the "Big Blue Ox," which grew to be so big that when a mere calf, it walked away with its barn on its back. Paul Bunyan, "like Topsy, just grewed," according to Mr. Laughhead's book. The booklet was published for the amusement of our friends, for The Red River Lumber Company.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Justice Morschauer, of the supreme court, announced today he would be unable to hand down his decision on the appeal of Referee Gleason in the Stillman divorce suit. LOVE DIRECTORY ONLY CLUE.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 6.—"A love directory," containing the names of 100 or more women of Phoenix, Los Angeles, Chicago and other cities was said by the police to be the chief clue in the murder mystery of Guy N. Denier. The names were written in a little black book that Denier carried in his breast pocket over his heart.

LAFOLLETTE SWEEPS STATE BY 2 TO 1 VOTE

Madison, Wis., Sept. 6.—"Fighting Bob" LaFollette, seeking renomination as United States senator, has swept Wisconsin by practically a 2 to 1 vote, returns from nearly one half the state today showed. His majority over William Ganfield, will pass the 150,000 mark, when all districts have been heard from it was stated.

Gov. John J. Blaine proved a fit running mate for Senator LaFollette for his plurality over William J. Morgan will top the 100,000 mark, figures early today indicated.

WAR HERO WORKS TO LIFT MORTGAGE

Cincinnati Sept. 6.—Named by General Pershing as the super hero of the world war, Sergeant Samuel Woodfill of Fort Thomas, Ky., spent the first day of his three months' leave working in overalls to raise money with which to meet a mortgage on his little home, it was learned today. His pay as a sergeant is insufficient to meet the payments on the home which they are buying, according to Mrs. Woodfill, and as a result Sam has taken a job as carpenter on a government dam under construction at Silver Grove. His pay there of $6 a day is just twice what he received when he is in Khaki instead of blue denim.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD OCTOBER 9 BY COUNTY "DRYS"

The convention of the Greene County Dry Federation, the result of the mass meeting held under the auspices of the Greene County W. C. T. U., a few days ago, will be held in the First United Presbyterian Church, this city, Monday, Oct. 9.

The meeting will open with the conference of workers at three o'clock to be followed by a mass meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

The program of the Mass Convention includes an address by Hon. A. A. Mayselles of Dayton, Chairman of the Ohio Dry Federation.

The conventions are being called by the Ohio Dry Federation in each county, to promote the campaign against the light wines and beer amendment which will be voted on at the November election. "Every dry voter in Greene County should know the importance of defeating this Brewer's and Bootlegger's Amendment," say Dry Federation officers. "It is an insidious, disloyal and dangerous proposition. It is an effort by constitutional amendment to destroy Dry Law Enforcement in Ohio. It means the inability of Ohio to assist in enforcing the Federal Dry Laws, and means practical nullification of the 18th Amendment in Ohio. It means that bootleggers can run the country without being searched by officers because this Brewer's Amendment requires a search warrant before any property or person can be searched. It means everything the drys have won in recent years in Ohio is endangered."

Invitations to attend the convention Monday are being sent out by E. MacDill, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League at Cincinnati.

FIVE DOLLARS EXTENT OF BURGLAR'S LOOT THURSDAY

An industrious burglar spent $5 worth of time and effort and was repaid by that much loot, when he burglarized the offices of the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Company, Detroit and Third Streets, sometime Thursday night.

The burglar scaled the high board fence into the lumber yard, and made his way to an office rear door, which he entered by breaking the glass over the lock, and turning the key. The safe door was open, but only $5 was contained in the cash drawer, which represented the amount of his loot. The robbery was discovered Friday morning and police notified.

IS HONORED WITH PARTIES IN Ironton.

Mrs. Gertrude G. Peters, whose marriage to Andrew Winter of Cedarville, took place Wednesday was honored with several pre-nuptial parties in Ironton, her home town. The following items are taken from the Morning Irontonian of Tuesday.

It was the pleasure of the members of the Tourist Club to open their meetings for the coming year at the home of Mrs. W. F. Rapp yesterday afternoon with a large number of members present. The large rooms were very inviting with bouquets of roses, dahlias, in many beautiful shades. A musical program in charge of Mrs. F. A. Bixby was the pleasure of the afternoon. At the close of the excellent program, Mrs. Rapp and Mrs. Stewart passed cards which to the great surprise of the guests when read was the announcement of the approaching wedding of Mrs. Gertrude G. Peters and Mr. Andrew Winter of Cedarville, Ohio, and at once congratulations were showered upon the bride to be. Mrs. Peters is a young woman of charm and culture and has always been a favorite among her large circle of friends she has won with her lovely personality.

Mr. Winter is a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Winter of Cedarville and is a fine young man and is engaged in the hardware business in that city. He is a particular friend of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dods of Xenia, Ohio. During the latter part of the afternoon the hostess served an elegant salad course. * * * Mrs. E. E. Stewart was the hostess to the members of the Tourist Club last evening when they met at her home and honored Mrs. Gertrude Peters with a miscellaneous shower. The living room and library had for their decoration many beautiful dahlias and potted plants. The dining room under the color scheme of yellow and white. The large round table was graced with a beautiful cover of real lace. Crystal candle sticks with yellow candles with their tapering lights were placed on either side. In the center was a cluster of many beautiful and useful gifts. The club members arrived a short while before the guests of honor and when the latter came, accompanied by a friend she was invited to the dining room which had only the subdued candle lights until just as she entered the hostess immediately turned on the lights and she found to her surprise

WHITE PINE AND SYRUP OF TAR LARGELY USED IN MAKING THIS GOOD COUGH AND COLD REMEDY

There is nothing better known to medical science to relieve a cough and break a cold than a compound of pure white pine and syrup of tar. It is mainly because of these two ingredients, in highly concentrated form, that Viora Cough and Cold Remedy is recognized as one of the most valuable preparations ever offered to the public.

Besides pure white pine and syrup of tar, Viora Cough and Cold Remedy contains many other valuable drugs which act as tonics. These latter increase digestion, overcome constipation and soothe the nerves. Viora Cough and Cold Remedy is especially valuable for people who are subject to constant colds because it not only relieves irritated conditions of the membranes but strengthens the entire system thus making it almost impossible to have repeated attacks throughout the entire system.

If you have weak lungs you cannot take Viora too soon—it is particularly for you—it will probably save you from the greatest menace to your life. A cold can disorder any organ. Colds often show themselves in the beginning by headaches, nervousness, indigestion, constipation and a stiffening of the joints. Then follow tickling sensations in the throat, watery eyes and a stoppage in the nose. Often the bronchial tubes are affected in such a manner as to produce pneumonia or chronic catarrh. In the summer we develop colds from overheating and the difficulty of relieving a summer cold is well known. It frequently drags along until fall as a slight cold and the first severe weather aggravates it. Then the patient suffers throughout the winter with the ever present danger of serious results. A few doses of Viora will prevent this condition. It is good for children as well as adults. Children do not object to it because it is pleasant to take. A 50 cent bottle contains enough medicine to treat a large family all suffering with colds for several weeks. Sold on money-back guarantee.

Viora Cough and Cold Remedy may be obtained at Sohn's Drug Store.

her friends awaiting her. As she opened the gifts she expressed her great appreciation. Later the hostess served elegant ice cream with yellow hearts and cake and was assisted by Mrs. E. H. Alfrey and Miss Margaret Ferguson.

Ailing Children Get Well on Syrup Pepsin

A small dose at bedtime brings relief and laughter by morning

HOSPITAL and doctor's records prove that 75 per cent of human illness has its origin in the intestinal canal, complicated with what is commonly called constipation. Realizing what that figure means, mothers should contrive methods of handling their children while they still control them that will prevent these future dangers. Teach children regularity of bowel movement, and be especially watchful of young girls. Insist on two passages a day until the age of 18, when one is usually sufficient. Give plenty of oranges and apples, plenty of butter because it lubricates the intestines, and encourage the drinking of water.

If you detect restlessness, belching, gas or wind on the stomach, sleeplessness, or lack of appetite, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's

GIRL SCOUTS ENJOY HIKES AND OUTDOOR PARTIES

Did you notice any peculiar signs on the walks and fence-posts Monday?

The mysterious characters were the work of the Girl Scouts, who were laying a trail which ended in a delightful early morning breakfast party for the members.

The trail was made by Patrol One, the members starting about six o'clock, carrying stones and chalk, they laid the trail for Patrol Two. The fun grew greater for Patrol Two, when they came near upon Patrol One, the trail signs being easily deciphered by the girls. Some signs characterized danger, some marked "beware" and some were puzzling to the scouts. Finally after finding false trails and other signs, Patrol Two came upon Patrol One preparing the breakfast and giving the "mess call."

On Monday, August 28, the Captain gave a "Kidd Party," when mysterious letters were found describing a hidden treasure and last finding the eats in a woods on the Bellbrook pike.

The Girl Scouts enjoying these good times are Patrol One, Jessie Mae Uhl, Mabel Milburn, Mildred Clark, Margaret Regan, Alice Davis, Mary Smith, Bernada Hoffman and Grace McFadden. Patrol Two, Edna Chambliss, Helen Chambliss, Frela Snaw, Ruth Day, Captain Hazel Schwab, and Lieutenant Cathryn Uhl.

Styles BY LENORE

Charming little figures are seen as children romp and frolic in Central Park, and while there may be an absence of novelty in the costumes worn there is no lack of smartness. A some what chill, cloudy day brought out the adorable little cape of lavender tweed shown in one of the thumbnail sketches. The hood was lined in a lighter shade of satin.

The cunning little lady next to this has on a frock of maize yellow jersey which looks quite Parisian with its colorful applique of a wool nosegay on the panel in front. Such a nosegay as this, by the way, may be bought readymade.

SENSATIONAL PLAY FEATURES GAME

A sensational catch by Schwab in the thirteenth inning, doubling Printz off second with one down, wound up the ball game between Clifton and the South Side Athletics of this city, Monday, which was won by the Xenia team 5 to 3.

The game was hard fought all the way. Regan, in the box for the locals, had one bad inning, the third, when the village lads connected with six safeties for three runs, the only ones they garnered during the pastime. Hotopp pitched fine ball, allowing the Xenia nine 11 hits, and holding them in check until the sixth stanza, when Crandall slammed out a triple, and scored on Stil's sacrifice fly to center.

Crandall again scored in the eighth when he singled, stole second and came in on Stil's single to left. Stiles tied the count when Jones sacrificed to deep right. The South End gang iced the contest in the thirteenth inning. After Skelly had whiffed, Regan was hit by a pitched ball and Jones ran for him. Murrell popped up, for the second death, but Jones stole both second and third, and was prevented from swiping the home plate when Schwab singled, bringing him in. Crandall then two-based viciously to left scoring Schwab, while Stiles popped to Hotopp for the third demise.

The Clifton nine threatened in their half. Hotopp singled to right and Printz scratched a safety and both were safe. Collins fanned and both runners advanced on a double steal. With men on second and third and one out, Sparrow flied to Schwab in center, who doubled Printz at second and the game was over.

Crandall featured the attack of the Xenia team with four hits in five attempts while Les Stiles and M. Leashev worked in their old time form at their old positions, second and short, completing three out of five double plays pulled by the South Side team.

The lineups: South Side — F. Leashev, 2b; Schwab, cf; Crandall, c; Stiles, 3b; M. Leashev, ss; Jones, rf; Woolary, lf; Skelly, 1b; Regan, p; Clifton — Edwards, cf; S. Collins, 2b; W. Corry, 1b; E. Collins, ss; N. Corry, 3b; Rowser, c; Printz, lf; Sparrow, rf, and Hotopp, p.

ELEANOR GRACE SAYS

Black, navy and brown seem to be the color basis for the fall and winter season gowns. Of course black is always just black, but the difference between the sheen of soft crepe, the rich lustre of velvet, the odd but engaging gleam of blistered satin give surprising variety of tone. Brown is the great leader for daytime wear, in all shades from dark tete a negre, to fawn. Hawaiian blue, is a beautiful new shade, intensely blue, without being showy. In the new color a richness of tone has been achieved that will make the season's offerings especially handsome.

The silver bracelets set with rhinestones are deservedly popular. They are effectively pretty and at the same time are inexpensive. We have very good looking ones for $3.00. The three thin gold loops, that are worn as a bracelet, are, also pretty and are warranted for five years. They only cost 50 cents a set.

AUSTRIA'S WAY OUT IS TO ARREST THE NOTE PRESS.

Confidence that the League of Nations would finally take constructive action toward Austria has been seriously undermined by a statement emanating from Sir Henry Strakosch, president of the Finance Committee of the League.

Sir Henry is represented as saying that the feeling throughout the world is anything but favorable to granting credits to Austria, not only because of the general situation of the money market, but principally because of the disappointment felt at Austria's incapacity to take a single effective step toward financial self-help, despite all the sympathy shown her.

He stated he thought a continuance of the appeal for credits would be a mistaken policy. Sir Henry also advocated free trade (almost impossible for Austria in view of the protection policy of her neighbors) and the immediate abolition of restrictions on commodities, particularly money transactions.

Sir Henry launched a vehement attack on the policy of inflation, saying Austria must arrest the note press, otherwise there was no way out.

PANAMA EARNINGS.

During August 281 ships used the Panama Canal, and the tolls were more than $1,000,000. To maintain that rate of intake, at $1.20 per net ton, would bring in more than $12,000,000 a year. Not till the fiscal year 1921 did the Canal properly demonstrate its earning power. The total earnings then came to $11,415,876.

The Canal was opened, inauspiciously, just after the war started. It was closed to traffic from September 18, 1915, to April 15, 1916. From the low ebb of that year, about $2,400,000, the figures rose to $8,513,933 for 1920. The Canal (including payments to the French company and to Panama for the Zone) cost about $375,000,000 to build. Last March the United States agreed to pay, by installments, $25,000,000 to Colombia by way of reparation. The total cost, exclusive of maintenance, has been approximately $400,000,000. The rate of income on the investment in August was almost precisely 3 per cent. There is every prospect of a steady increase.

A remarkable phase of the developments at Panama has been the disappearance of the calamity-howlers who predicted first that a canal could not be built and then that it could not be made to pay. Nobody remembers them now or their megrims. Yet every public work of magnitude that is started today produces a fresh crop of similar pessimists. The great Canal, with its Atlantean burden of the traffic of the world, is a monumental rebuke to the whole breed of croakers.

THE VANDAL CAMPER.

The knowledge has been driven home to a good many thinking citizens that it is possible to exterminate wild game or flowers or trees. It took a long time and much bitter experience to teach America that lesson, and there is another not wholly learned even yet.

Our forefathers on this continent would have said anyone was crazy who foretold the extermination of pigeons, the killing of more than a million buffalo a year, the destruction of 60 per cent of the original supply of merchantable timber, dangerous reduction of the numbers of elk, antelope, sage hens and so on.

We know today that this is all only too possible, and we pass game laws and other restrictive legislation in a hasty, last-minute effort to preserve whatever remnants we can for posterity.

The unlearned lesson is that the marvellous natural scenery and beautiful wild spots of the nation can be spoiled just as easily and lastingly, by a continuation of present careless treatment. Already echoes from forest and mountain are bringing to the city news that many ideal camp sites and regions of scenic beauty and wonder are practically ruined by the thoughtless action of sojourners in the out-of-doors. Smoldering camp fires which frequently become disastrous conflagrations, unsightly rubbish thrown about, trees unnecessarily felled or hacked into deformity lie in the trail of the vacation camper.

Is it necessary for one who is a gentleman in town to be a vandal in the woods?

THE FADING JOHNSON.

Hiram Johnson is slipping. The returns from California's primaries show that he has been renominated. California hardly could do otherwise after what Johnson has done for her prune orchards and her orange groves. Nevertheless, California no longer loves him as she used to love him.

In 1920 the Johnson shadow fell across the White House. Two years later that shadow had shrunk back within the metes and bounds of California, and is paling even there. The sun of Johnson is within the penumbra of its national eclipse.

Awhile back there were Borah and La Follette, Reed and Johnson. Of these, the greatest then was Johnson. He was the tallest of them all. Reed is a bigger national figure today than he was in the League fights. LaFollette has held his ground and Borah has, unquestionably, grown. But Johnson is no longer the giant redwood of California's political forests.

MY SON, SOMETIMES I HAVE TO DECIDE AGAINST YOU. I DON'T LIKE TO. I WISH IT WERE NEVER NECESSARY. BUT OUR FAMILY IS A VERY LARGE ONE AND IT ALMOST NEVER HAPPENS THAT THEY ALL CAN DO JUST WHAT THEY WOULD LIKE OR HAVE ALL THAT THEY WANT. THAT IS PROBABLY A BLESSING RATHER THAN OTHERWISE. WHAT IS ALWAYS RIGHT IS PRETTY HARD TO KNOW SOMETIMES. SOMEONE HAS TO MAKE THE DECISION. THAT IS MY JOB. I HAVE MADE MISTAKES—LOTS OF THEM. YOU HAVE MADE SOME. BUT ON THE WHOLE WE HAVE DONE PRETTY WELL BY EACH OTHER. YOU HAVE GROWN STRONGER AND WISER EACH YEAR AND HAVE TAKEN MORE OF THE FAMILY RESPONSIBILITIES ON YOUR SHOULDERS. THAT IS AS IT SHOULD BE. BUT REMEMBER, SON, WE CAN'T CHANGE EVERYTHING AT ONCE. MUCH HAS TO BE WORKED OUT THROUGH EXPERIENCE. MY JUDGMENTS ARE ALWAYS SUBJECT TO REVISION. NO CASE IS EVER CLOSED IN OUR FAMILY COUNCILS AND NO ONE HAS A MORE SYMPATHETIC HEARING THAN YOU. SOMEONE HAS TO DECIDE FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY AND THAT'S YOUR OLD DAD—BUT WHEN I DECIDE I MEAN IT.

OUT ON AN ISLAND

I love islands. They seem so individual and free. Today I took a boat and rowed to one. It rises in solid rock right out of Lake Champlain, just a few miles from the little town of Westport, New York.

This island is only about a quarter of a mile long and hardly a good city block across. But it is beautifully wooded with pine and other trees and presents a picture of peace and happiness.

I took by typewriter and cameras and books and hunted out a lovely spot on a smooth rock where the water washed near. And there I read and wrote for all day, too happy to return to the mainland for evening luncheon.

Here were some blackberries, some bushes with red berries winding paths and rugged rocks that may be centuries in age.

I walked to the center of the island and looked through the tall pines across the magnificent lake to the mountains of Vermont beyond. The gray-green monsters loomed like some huge fence that enclosed a separate world. I could see the white clouds bathe their summits and then pass along to other points. The blue of the sky seemed such a glorious background. I stood thrilled and enthralled. For the entire picture was framed by great, towering pine whose branches reached out as though to compete with the other beauties of this scene.

And I was alone, here on this island—and yet not alone!

For where beauty and inspiration is, there can be no loneliness, no lack of divine communication.

As the day grew old, deep shadows began to cast themselves across the rocks and through the open spaces of the woods. A wind that had played soft tunes through the trees all day, became mellow and mild. Brilliant colors in streaks and fire-red masses began to hide behind the chain of mountains that seem to surround this small spot of earth. Such a sunset! No words are adequate for description. But oh, how beautiful.

Soon the stars began to appear, one by one, in the sky above, and I took my belongings and climbed into the boat, and rowed back to my tent on the mainland.

And there watched the shadows of night hover over the beloved island until my eyes grew heavy and I passed into dreams of islands.

HOBBIES.

When one retires from active life, from all its turmoil, stress and strife, to spend his closing years, some silly fad he must pursue, some hobby he must keep in view, or he'll be soaked in tears. For idle days drag slowly by to one who made the gravel fly in time of pep and strength; and he will find a hobby pays; it gives some charm to empty days, and will reduce their length. I am collecting stovepipe hats once worn by famous plutocrats, and seers and poets meek; I have the lid that Lincoln wore when he was clerking in a store at seven bucks per week. Collecting bonnets drives away the dust, the mildew and decay that years accumulate, and oh, it fills my heart with smiles, to view my stock of storied tiles, the kellys of the great. Now, where I live old men are thick; they rest, the ancient, tired and sick, beside the ocean blue; and when the sea has lost its charm, the old boys view things with alarm, for they have naught to do. I tell them that collecting cats, or overshoes, or stovepipe hats, or tin tobacco tags, will make them all seem young again, these old and haggard, weary men, so time no longer drags. But they were used to large affairs, when in their old time city lairs, they don't know how to play; and so they yawn and murmur, "Rats!" while I go on collecting hats to drive the gloom away.

THE STEPS WHICH FIRST LED MR. HARDING TO BE A CANDIDATE.

Intimations have been coming from Washington that Mr. Harding would not be greatly disappointed if Fortune denied him a second term in the White House. It is set forth by the projectors of this report that the President has no lust for power; that having enjoyed the great honor of being Chief Executive of the United States, his disposition is such that he will return contentedly to private life. The only possible thing to say of these puzzling foreshadowings at this juncture is that they may or may not be true.

But these current whisperings and estimates in prophecy are indicative. In the coming two years the whole domestic political world will be concerned with Mr. Harding's personality and characteristics. He will be under a minute and searching scrutiny. The jockeying and planning for the presidential campaign of 1924 are already under way. In every move and plan that is made both the Democrats and the Republicans must consider the possibility that Mr. Harding will be a candidate to succeed himself. In this situation, how he became in the first instance a candidate for the presidency has a bearing and a present application.

It is a simple and a revealing story worth recalling. It was known to some of Mr. Harding's intimates two years ago while the campaign for the Republican nomination at Chicago was in progress.

Mr. Harding has in the truest and best sense of an abused word a simple mind. It has a certain naive quality that lends itself to the ready admittance of illusions, particularly about people. Old Abou Ben Adhem himself was no more ready to think well of his fellow men than Mr. Harding. So that when he came to Washington as a Senator he brought to that scene a great array of illusions about the illustrious and eminent figures he hoped and expected to find. He thought of the Washington stage as populated with "great men," intellectual giants, statesmen of heroic stature, orators who could debate with Demosthenes. He looked with awe upon the figures in the Senate whose names he had known for years, but whose real quality and true measure he had never had opportunity to put to personal examination. Mr. Harding was (and is) unassuming and modest. He never thought to measure himself with these fabled great with whom he was now to be associated.

But presently it began to be observed that Mr. Harding was more at ease in the presence of these illustrious apparitions with whom he came in intimate daily contact. He began to regard them with level eyes instead of looking upward. Their proportions diminished. His superstitious regard for the superman qualities with which he had endowed them began to dissipate. He saw them as ordinary men astonishingly like himself and the neighbors at Marion and other men he had known all his life. Quite without vanity or any enlargement of his ego he realized that a beneficent Creator had endowed him with a character, a capacity for work and understanding and qualities of mind and heart that made him an equal of the associates he had revered from a distance before he came to know them.

Precisely and definitely at this moment of discovery was the fancy bred that made Mr. Harding a candidate for the nomination for the presidency. He saw some of his associates in and out of the Senate chamber about to make the great essay. He made slow comparisons. He could not see they had advantages over him—the country was taking their proffering of themselves seriously. Why not his? He had nothing to lose and everything to gain. He felt himself as competent and well equipped as any of his competitors, and never once at that time or since has any one ever heard him decry or belittle any of the men in the contest for the nomination. He didn't set himself up as a better man, but he offered himself to the judgment of his party convention as being "just as good" as any of the others who sought the distinction. His aspiration so simply and naturally conceived was realized.—E. G. Lowry.

DRUG-RING LEADER GETS EIGHT YEARS.

Philadelphia has been having such an "epidemic" of drug fiend addicts as to arouse the whole city about the frightful evil. To counteract the trouble, the city passed an ordinance imposing heavy penalties upon the secret dealers in the narcotics. But it was very hard to catch them. It is such a shameful practice that the "addicts" keep as secret as possible where they get the torpor producing stuff, and of course the dealers in the stuff, knowing it to be against the law, conduct all their sales in an underhanded way. So the police are badly handicapped in attempts to catch the dealers.

The first bulwark of the drug ring toppled Monday in Criminal Court when Joseph Weiss, alias "Jew Murphy," pleaded guilty to thirteen indictments charging the unlawful sale and possession of drugs, and was sentenced by Judge McDevitt to eight years in the County Prison. Up to the very last moment he had fought the case tooth and toenail. But at last gave in by indication.

"Do you wish to change your plea?" asked the crier. "Yes sir," answered "Murphy" in a weak voice.

"How say you to these thirteen bills of indictment, 'Guilty or not guilty?'"

"Guilty—guilty on all bills," was the prisoner's response as he slumped backward to his seat.

After "Murphy's" pleas of guilty had been entered the Commonwealth brought forward at least a dozen addicts and several Federal agents, who testified they had bought drugs from "Murphy," that he was the "King Peddler" of the Eighth and Vine streets drug center.

The Prosecutor asked the Court to hear "Murphy's" criminal record. It dated back to 1913 and included a three-year sentence in the Federal Prison at Atlanta for dealing in drugs. Then he was sentenced.

"Murphy," had summoned to his aid a few tears, believed to be of the well-known "crocodile" variety.

The testimony of Elsie Whittaker, the Harrisburg addict, now at the point of death from excessive use of narcotics, was also introduced. The woman had said she has spent thousands of dollars with "Murphy" for drugs in the last two years.

GET RIGHT BUSY AND STRENGTHEN IT.

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Today is the fortieth anniversary of Perryville, a struggle in which thousands of soldiers of the Civil War went down before the leaden hail. A number of the Greene County boys, who belonged to the 94th regiment, were in this battle and bear today the marks of their wounds.

The Wilmington and Xenia Traction Company now has its right of way almost complete, its surveying is done and only a few more preliminaries are necessary before everything is ready for the construction gang.

The soil of the Court House grounds seems to have been productive of a growth of fall mushrooms and they have been sprouting forth every night. The champion find of the numerous mushroom hunters on the grounds was made yesterday when a giant fungus, measuring fully ten inches in diameter was discovered. Mr. Charles Greenleaf will spend today in Old Town. Charley says it will be very wise to get away from the noise of the city for a little while.

Letters to The Editor

Editor of The Gazette and Republican
Merely as a suggestion to the City Commission. I offer the question of wouldn't it be better to delay selling the Work House until after the state has voted on the beer and light wine amendment this fall, if it is finally decided that we shall vote on it.

Should the amendment carry, the influence of Ohio's action, might lead to qualification of the present, stringent provisions of the V.stead Law. In that case we would undoubtedly find good use for the Work House again, and the Dayton institution would be too crowded to take care of our prisoners.

We know that the Work House had a goodly number of customers before prohibition days, and that its abandonment since then was due to the lack of prisoners because of enforcement of the prohibitory law. Qualification of that amendment would mean a recurrence to the former conditions, and new business for the Work House.

Thanking you for this space, I am

REALISM.

Ah, the realistic writer, with his novel, makes me sad; for his hero is a blighter and his heroine's as bad. Says the "realistic" fellow, when he takes his fountain pen, "All the world is punk and yellow, freaks its women and its men. I'll describe a little section of the life that I behold, write up squalor and dejection, mildew, rottenness and mold. And my book will have no humor, nothing gay will it disclose, for I'd write about a tumor rather than describe a rose. There will be no plot or action such as healthy people choose, for I cater to that traction of the crowd that has the blues." So he writes a sordid story of a sordid lot of wrecks, failures young and failures hoary, talking evermore of Sex. And some critics cry, "Great Caesar! How he reads the human soul! He's a grand and gifted geezer who could write that rigmarole!" And the smell of rot grows denser as the realism grows, while men talk about a censor, and the wise man holds his nose. Realism in the sewer rakes and digs and claws around, hunting carrion that's newer than poor Zola ever found.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

The Grass.

Long before the trees came, far in advance of the animals and the running feet of man, and preceding the life of the flowers of the field, God placed as a blanket for His earth—the grass.

I find this mind of mine all too inadequate to put into words expression fit enough to describe the glory and beauty of the grass.

We look out of our window in the morning when the dew is fresh and heavy under the rays of the sun, and watch the diamonds flicker there. In springtime we watch the little heads of the crocuses, the daffodils, the violets, the buttercups, and the thousands of varieties of field and garden flowers, smiling so happy and free from out this gorgeous green.

We walk across its velvet and feel a personal glow of satisfaction that is reflected back into our very soul, for we know that we would go out into the world heavier in heart but for this colorful cheer that is universal throughout the world.

The trees, the sun—grass. Blessed trinity!

Go where you will, from the loneliest wilderness to the most peopled town, and there you will find this friend to all mankind, working its way silently and with persistence that is almost divine in its cast.

Build you a home and the first thing after its completion is to plant the grass. Let the dry winds and the hot sun parch its strands and a dreariness immediately settles upon that place and men pray for rain that this cheer of green may return.

Out upon the grass the children play and again, its soft raiment babies creep and laugh.

Its immortality is fixed—for against fire, famine and disaster does it contend and yet live. And though marching armies blast its loveliness for a time and bathe its roots in precious blood, still do the winds of Heaven remember and bring back to these same fields renewed beauty and fresher life.

Thank you, God, for this grass of yours—loaned to use for a time while we live and which covers this body of yours at last as it does into its longes, sleep under the sun and stars.

ONE KILLED; THREE INJURED. RESULT OF A BOYISH PRANK

within the fence, to escape the flying bullets. Before they had sought shelter, all three of them had fallen. Four of the youths, quick-thinking, sought shelter behind the woodpile, where they hugged the ground in abject fear. One, Warren Middleton, was frozen in his tracks, and received a gun charge in his arm before he could seek shelter.

"Charlie, for God's sake don't shoot," cried Donald Weaver, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver, near whose home the shooting took place. His terror-stricken cry, directed at Patrolman Simms, whom he knew well, came in a pause in the shooting after probably ten shots had been fired, according to witnesses. His appeal was choked off as it was welcomed by another volley from the officers. A second time the firing paused, as the officers attempted to climb the fence, and reload their guns. "For God's sake, Charlie, don't shoot any more," appealed Donald, emerging from the wood pile.

"Come out and hold up your hands, you—" cried the officer, with a curse. Donald walked out with his hands above his head. It was some time before officers realized the terrible mistake had been made, as their minds gradually absorbed the gruesome details. In the woods nearby, the officers were still running down the wounded. There they found Dorsey Nichols, gasping for breath. He was picked up and with Warren Middleton, was brought to the city in the officer's car and taken to the Espey Hospital. A passing motorist offered to bring Volney Nichols to the hospital, but death had taken place before he could be removed. The body was later taken to the Whitmer Undertaking Establishment in this city.

The gruesome ride from the scene of the shooting to the hospital here was a quiet one broken only by the groans of the wounded boys. Realizing that they had shot down as criminals, harmless youngsters craving a night of fun, the officers could do little more than look at each other.

The report of a man and woman, names unknown, brought the officers on their tragic quest of highwaymen. The couple was a victim of the boyish prank. As they approached the tire in the road, the woman drove and the man stood on the running board leaning forward to pick up the "bait." As he did so it was jerked away and he was met by the mocking jeers of the practical jokers. Frightened at the occurrence, he is thought to have misinterpreted the act as an attempt at hold up. His report to Sheriff Funderburg caused the official to pick up Deputy Sheriff Joseph Day, William Burns, manager of Kil Kare Park, who is a special deputy, and Patrolman Charles Simms. They say that when Simms attempted to pick up the tire from the road that the boys began to dart toward the trees in the woods on the east side of the fence. They claim their figures were only dimly discernible in the moonlight, and that they were taken for men. The officers claim they shouted at the fleeing figures to halt, and that when their command was ignored they opened fire.

Donald Weaver, one of the party of boys, said Wednesday he is ready to swear that the officers uttered no warning or command to halt, before they opened fire. His story follows: "We had an old tire wrapped up in paper like a new one, and we were leaving it along the road for passing motorists to pick up. When they'd go to pick it up, we'd pull it in by a wire and then give them the laugh. All of them took it well and one fellow said he wanted to treat us."

"I guess somebody drove to town and said there were robbers out there, and came out. One of them, I don't know which, got out to get the tire and when he got hold of it we jerked it out of his hand. They began shooting right away—never said 'hands up' or anything—just began to shoot. Volney Nichols, the boy who was killed, ran down the ditch. We were on the left side of the road going toward Wilmington. I don't think Warren Middleton ran because he was standing by the fence all the time. I tried to tell Simms what we were doing, but I couldn't make him understand anything."

"When they first started the shooting I thought somebody from around there was trying to scare us with blank cartridges. Then I heard the bullets whiz past. One of them dug up the dirt about a half-foot from me and I ducked behind the woodpile and laid down flat on the ground."

I thought sure a bullet would come through the cracks in the wood pile. Vic, my brother, had been pulling the tire and he ducked behind the wood pile with Clarence Rheubart, Elmer Middleton, Charles Keiter and myself. They must have shot about ten times the first time, and when they paused I stuck my head up and said 'Charlie, for God's sake quit shooting.' I just got that far when they started shooting again and I ducked. They must have shot ten more times. Then Simms stuck his gun around the woodpile, and said 'Don't run you. Don't run.' Charlie was the only one who said anything any time. The rest of them kept still, Charlie said 'Don't run, I'll kill everyone of you'. Two of them were shooting. But they never said 'hands up'—they never said a word."

Little 12-year-old Clarence Keiter, son of Alva Keiter of the Wilmington pike and grandson of D. B. Keiter, Washington St., this city, told a similar story, Wednesday. Stories of all the boys coincide, while parents of some of the youths, who were spending the evening at the Frank Weaver home a short distance away knew of their fun and could here the tire pulled across the road each time a motorist fell for the ruse. The men in the party who ran to the scene when the shooting began, also say they heard no commands.

The condition of Dorsey Nichols, who is in Espey Hospital suffering from two bullet wounds, is considered grave. The lad was taken to the hospital with Warren Middleton by the officers following the shooting. Dr. W. A. Galloway, who has charge of the hospital in the absence of Dr. Paul Espey, with Dr. C. G. McPherson, Dr. A. D. DeHaven and assisted by Marshall Best, medical student, dressed the injuries of both boys.

Because of the precarious position of the imbedded bullet and the condition of the youth, no attempt was made to operate on Dorsey Nichols or to probe for the bullet which struck him below the right shoulder blade. Surgeons say it may have lodged in the lung or been deflected and be in the fleshy part of his body under his arm. The bullet, which passed clear through the boy's body, is thought certain to have pierced vital organs, and it is thought possible that the stomach was punctured. The boy suffered considerable pain, Tuesday night, but was resting comfortably Wednesday and his condition was better than anticipated by surgeons. He knew his brother fell during the shooting and was informed of his death Wednesday.

Warren Middleton, the other boy at the hospital, is suffering from a terribly lacerated left arm below the elbow, although surgeons say they will be able to save the member. The bullet, tore the flesh away on both sides of the arm, and splintered the bone. He was more comfortable Wednesday. Clarence Keiter's wound is not considered serious. He is at home. Besides the dead boy and the youths wounded, members of the practical joke party were Donald Weaver, 22, and his brother, Victor Weaver, 16, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver, Elmer Middleton, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middleton, Wilmington pike, and a brother of the wounded boy; Charles Keiter, 16, brother of Clarence Keiter, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Keiter, Wilmington pike; Clarence Rheubart, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rheubart, of the Stone road.

With tension on the streets Wednesday at fever pitch, and talk of the shooting on the lips of crowds who gathered on the corners, attention was turned to the office of Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson from whom the next move is expected, in the tragic drama. Although he refused to issue an official statement Wednesday, the Prosecutor indicated that charges of manslaughter will be filed against the officers if the forthcoming investigation of the shooting indicates evidence warranting the charges, and they will be considered by the grand jury either at a special or the next regular session of that body.

Decision on this point, it is believed, will rest largely on the verdict issued by Dr. R. L. Haines, County Coroner, following his official inquest, which he intimates he will postpone for several days, to allow the feeling in the case to cool down. On the result of the Coroner's probe and his decision, hinges the action of the prosecutor. Prosecutor Williamson said Wednesday that there would be no need for immediate manslaughter charges, anyway, as there was no possibility of the men involved leaving the city, and the charges can be preferred anytime before the grand jury is called, if they are considered necessary.

While the police department was preparing for an emergency or possible mob violence, aimed at the Sheriff and his Deputies, Sheriff Funderburg Wednesday refused to leave the city until the tense situation had blown over.

"I have only one time to die," he told friends who suggested that, he might avoid personal injury by leaving the city. In the crowds on the streets Wednesday, talk that the officers should be charged with first degree murder, were freely heard, and substantiated by some attorneys. It is believed that the usual charge in such a case is manslaughter. Wednesday morning Logan Nichols, father of the slain boy, J. R. Rheubart and Frank Weaver, fathers of the others boys involved in the shooting, visited several attorneys' offices, in an effort to learn the possibility of prosecuting criminal charges against the officers. They were advised to await the action of the Coroner and Prosecuting Attorney, and if no steps were taken by them, they could then file normal charges themselves.

Volney Nichols, the boy who died instantly at the hand of the officers, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Nichols, who live one and one-half miles from Xenia, on the Wilmington pike, where they operate a three-acre truck farm. He also leaves, besides his wounded brother, Dorsey, the following brothers, and sisters: Porter, Stanley, Lacey, Hazel and Evelyn, at home, Mrs. Nettie Nichols of Dayton, and Miss Etta Nichols of Cincinnati. The last two sisters were notified and have come to this city. Mrs. Nichols, mother of the slain youth, has been ill for a week, and as a result of the shock following the Tuesday night shooting, her condition is said to be serious. Logan Nichols, is originally a Kentuckian. He is considerably wrought up over the killing and Wednesday morning vowed he would seek every resource of the law to gain vengeance for the death of one son and the possibly fatal wounding of another.

JAPANESE PUT OUT BY RUSS ENVOYS' BAGGY TROUSERS

Chang Chun, Manchuria, Sept. 6.—The second session of the Russo-Japanese conference, which was arranged to settle the Siberian issue, convened today under a cloud of hostility which boded ill for future results. The Japanese have been cleverly out-manuevered.

Joffe and Yanson, Russian delegates bear credentials from the governments of both Soviet Russia and the Far East Republic thus compelling the Japanese delegates to negotiate with all Russia instead of with Soviet Russia and the Far East Republic, separately. The preliminary session was marked by heated arguments. The Japanese, being out-generalled, took exception to the Russian method of diplomacy.

The Japanese delegates were spick and span in silk hats and morning coats were considerably put out when the Russians showed up in sack suits with trousers that were obviously baggy at the knees.

The anger of the Japanese was intensified further by the fact that the Russians spurned tea and drank whiskey when they felt the need of a stimulant.

The Russians issued a communique condemning the refusal of the Japanese to allow Press correspondents to attend the session. M. Joffe said the Russians stood for open diplomacy on all subjects.

RESCUES GIRLS AS RUNAWAY HORSE ENDANGERS LIVES

"Jack" Weaver student at Caesar-creek High School holds the enviable title of "hero" among his classmates, since last Wednesday when he saved two girls from severe injury or probably death.

The girls, Gladys Bales and Vera Jones, were returning home from school Wednesday evening, when the horse driven by Miss Bales, became frightened at a dangling piece of broken harness and bolted.

The girls became frightened when the horse could not be checked and called for help.

"Jack" and several of his school companions, with Mr. Kyle, superintendent of the Caesar-creek High School were in a Ford roadster, coming along the pike, going to Paintersville, when they overtook the frightened horse.

Seeing the predicament the girls were in, Mr. Kyle, the driver of the machine succeeded in overtaking the buggy, and when along side the vehicle, young Weaver leaped from the car to the buggy and felling the animal. When the horse again started to bolt Weaver leaped to the ditch, to evade being kicked, the hoof of the animal striking Miss Bales on the arm, fracturing it at the elbow.

The girls were taken to the office of Dr. R. L. Haines, where their injuries were dressed, Miss Jones also suffering from minor injuries, and were later taken to their homes.

FARCE COMEDY TO OPEN SHANNON STAND

The farce comedy "The Marriage of Geraldine" will be the opening vehicle of the Harry Shannon Players, when they appear at City Hall Theater, Friday and Saturday nights, instead of "Kiss and Make Up," as originally announced.

"The Marriage of Geraldine" is a sprightly and laugh-forcing comedy, of the type that has made the Shannons famous, and it is well adapted to their style and well cast to the abilities of the company members.

Between acts the Shannons will offer their usual time-killing vaudeville entertainments, that keep the audience in a good humor, and cut down to a minimum the scene shifting periods. Saturday night the Shannons will repeat with another interesting stage vehicle and they promise that all of the old favorites are back to take part in their productions this season.

The engagement of Harry Shannon's Company will officially open the City Hall Theater for the winter theatrical season. The company comes here by arrangement with the Standard Amusement Company.

OHIO STATE PLAYS OPENER IN STADIUM

Columbus, Oct. 6.—Interest unequalled before opening games in seasons past attaches to the first game tomorrow for the 1922 Ohio State football team, for it will also be the first game in the new $1,341,000 Ohio Stadium. Ohio Wesleyan grid-ers come here for the annual curtain raiser.

Attendance figures always on the short side of 12,000 for Ohio Wesleyan-Ohio State early season encounters, are certain to be revised upward tomorrow. That many school kids alone will be there, for the Athletic Board at Ohio State University is introducing and innovation made possible by the adequate seating capacity of the new stadium. Opening day will be "Kids' Day." Tickets are being offered 30,000 Columbus school children for a nominal fee.

As another innovation, ushering will be handled by Boy Scouts. A veritable army of Scouts, their forces augmented by University students at the turnstiles and section entrances, will direct the crowds to their seats at all games. Attendance will number close to 800, approximately 650 of them Scouts.

WILMINGTON WILL PLAY DENISON ON SATURDAY

With Christmas, crack center, who is said to have outplayed every man opposite him in every game, out of play because of a broken ankle received in practice; with Farquhar, star backfield man nursing a bad knee and Red Reardon, fast end, hobbling around with a sprained ankle, Coach Harper is straining his efforts to round out the Wilmington eleven into proper shape to meet Denison next Saturday at Granville. Strenuous practice every afternoon is proving the Quakers in trim, and it will be a battle royal when the Baptists are taken on, students of the score board believe. Wilmington held the famous Detroit university to one touchdown last Saturday and Denison took the game from the supposedly weaker team at Pittsburgh by a low score.

Mothers should remember this. Growing children need 16 food elements, else they are underfed.

Those 16 elements are all in oats. They are in right proportions. That is why oats have held for ages the premier place as a child's food. Mothers should also remember this. Some oats are delicious, some are not. Some oats are welcome and wanted. They form the favorite dish in the home. Children eat such oats in plenty. That is the reason for Mother's Oats. That's why we named them Mother's Oats. They are the flakes that children love, and mothers who care should get them.

NO SIGNS OF HARD TIMES IN GERMANY ARE SEEN BY LOCAL WOMAN WHO WRITES INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF CONDITIONS IN THAT COUNTRY AS SHE FOUND THEM

A word picture of the existing conditions in Germany in contrast with the general impression held by the American public is painted in an interesting letter received by Mrs. Mary Meredith, of North King Street, from her sister, Mrs. Joseph Littell written during Mrs. Littell's European trip this summer.

Mrs. Littell with her brother, Edmund Munge, of Jacksonville, Ill., and her son, George Littell, spent several weeks touring the continent and the British Isles, and gained a valuable insight into the conditions of the countries.

The following extracts, concerning Germany are of interest: "There are absolutely no signs of hard times or poverty here that we have seen (Germany), but I presume we see only the better class. All are well dressed, the restaurants are full, the store windows attractive, some private homes that would rival those of any other country, the streets clean, public buildings imposing. It is really a handsome city (Cologne), as we saw pretty well from a touring charabanc this morning. We saw General Ludendorff's splendid mansion and several others belonging to generals whose names we did not know—also the house of Rathenau, who was lately murdered.

We are almost ashamed to eat our food at the ridiculously low prices charged! A waiter takes a big fat wallet from his pocket and extracts therefrom paper change in neat piles; ten dollars worth of German money comes wrapped in bundles such as you see in banks. Our last exchange made in Coblenz, was 770 marks for one dollar!

Germany is a busy place. Everyone is working and up early at it, in contrast to England, where the stores were not open till nine o'clock. We were struck by the apathetic look in many of the faces in Coblenz. In all these cities—Cologne, Mainz, Stuttgart, Coblenz, are foreign soldiers—British, French (so hated), Belgian, American.

We think that the Germans are more too eager to help English-speaking people, though we have met with no discourtesy.

Men and women are busy in the fields, some cutting hay and wheat with a sickle, some with a scythe, raking it by hand, tying up sheaves and making shocks, or pitching hay onto wagons, drawn by oxen. No fences to mark off the fields, no cattle grazing excepting as we neared Oberammergau, when we saw a dozen or so cows, the very first we had seen in Germany. This was in great contrast to Holland, where herds of cows grazed everywhere.

All the farm wagons that we saw here were drawn by oxen. As in France, the farmers appear to live in small villages. The houses that we passed were neat and tidy, many of them containing both dwelling and stable in one building. We saw some flowers, but by no means as many as in England. Some miles before we reached Oberammergau Swiss style of architecture became more evident, most of the houses having balconies with flower-filled window boxes. All along the road were pedestrians on their pilgrimage to the Passion Play, knapsacks on their backs, a cane to help their tired feet. Shrines occurred at frequent intervals, most of them containing an image of the crucified Christ.

At one village we passed there was a huge monastery, with many buildings, and soon after we reached Oberammergau, situated in a valley, although 4,000 feet above sea-level, and surrounded by high mountains, on the highest of which some pious persons had placed a great cross, appearing small but distinct from the valley. It must have been a laborious undertaking to erect it, for the ascent looked impossible. The houses of the village are unique. All stuccoed and stained white, some of them with elaborate designs painted in colors over the doors and windows—actual pictures of people and animals, the effect very pleasing. Anton Lang's house, quite large and pretentious, with vines and flowers to add to its attractiveness, is probably the finest-looking dwelling.

Mrs. Lang, through whom we made arrangement for tickets and lodging, speaks excellent English and has a charming personality, and we found her always busy with tourists, many of whom demanded impossible privileges. She gave us rooms in a house at the end of the village—clean, comfortable, well-supplied rooms, far from the noise and traffic—and we ate lunch and dinner at her house, where at least a hundred tourists, chiefly Americans, took their meals. There were many other eating places out in town, generally filled with patrons. Stores with many and varied articles for sale, and thousands of picture postcards. The streets were thronged with people and little, Victoria-like carriages, drawn by one or two horses and driven by men in Tyrolean costume. Buses emptied their loads into the already crowded streets. It is remarkable how that small village manages the hordes that invade it during the season. Of course the whole town is in gala dress for its decennial festival.

The Passion Play began at eight in the morning, and it was a sight to see the vast crowd wending its way to the big theatre, which, with its many entrances, many ushers and well worked out system, soon absorbed the throng. There were beside the forty-five hundred seated spectators, sixteen hundred standing, and the audience was under shelter, while the stage itself was open to the sky. The dignity, bauty and impressiveness of that monumental performance cannot be exaggerated. The scenery, costumes, color-arrangement, the acting, the chorus and orchestra—were all beyond praise. Anton Lang's acting of the role of Christ was almost flawless in its nobility of conception. It would be folly to attempt a description but the play was impressive to the point of suffocation at times. Part one lasted from eight till nearly noon; part two from two until about six, yet the performance was never for one moment tiresome. We were, however, worn out physically and mentally, at the end of the day, and it was apparent to us that "gay Paris" is not gay at all. The restaurants are comparatively empty—the side-walk cafes—a condition all the more noticeable after Germany, where the eating places are well-filled also the passenger trains. It appeared to us that France is worse off than Germany—as of course she must be owing to her work of restoration—and that Germany could pay. It is absurd for passing tourists to attempt a final judgment but that was our inevitable impression. The railroad trains everywhere in Germany were crowded.

NO FINAL ACTION

TAKEN IN QUESTION

INVOLVING SCHOOL

The final action of the Xenia City School Board, in connection with the proposed action in moving pupils of the Opportunity School to the Spring Hill Building, which was vigorously opposed by residents of Spring Hill and patrons of the school, is still a matter of question. The solving of the problems that confronted the Board, and which led them to the proposed action, at a meeting of a committee of residents of Spring Hill and patrons of the school at the home of Robert Kingsbury on Rogers Street, Tuesday night, is thought to have brought the matter to a head, and will result in definite action soon.

Members of the committee, including members of the Mother's Circle of Spring Hill School, and backers of the petition, circulated over the city opposing the plan, with Superintendent of schools C. A. Waltz, met at the Kingsbury home, Tuesday evening and presented arguments, pro and con, in connection with the proposed action.

The reason of the residents of Spring Hill and patrons of the school, for opposing the plan, as voiced in the petition circulated over the neighborhood, are that the moving of the pupils "is an injustice and decided wrong inflicted upon the patrons and pupils of Spring Hill School, and that, to become a dumping ground for the other schools of the city, is a proposition against which they most emphatically protest, as being an imposition upon the Spring Hill School, endangering the morals of its pupils and working against the best interests of their local community."

The opposition and the reasons of the residents were met at the meeting by Superintendent Waltz, from an economic standpoint, this factor playing a large part in the proposed movement of the pupils to the Spring Hill Building. According to Superintendent Waltz, the Parish House, which housed the pupils since the inauguration in this city, is not fit for such because of hygiene and sanitary reasons.

Members of the committee presented to Superintendent Waltz, the matter of the recent Community Chest fund, when three-thirtieths of the amount raised was donated to the Opportunity School, making a total of $1,300. The School board has received $700 dollars of the amount and with a balance of $60, and with $600 yet to be received, the total amount reaches $1,366. The money available, it is understood, was to be used for the housing, feeding and the welfare of the pupils.

Dr. B. R. McClellan, a member of the committee, presented to Superintendent Waltz, the matter of securing the new Seminary Building on West Third Street, for use for the Opportunity School. This plan was vetoed by Superintendent Waltz, because of cost, stating that it would take $1000 a year to rent the building. With the budgeting of the amount allotted the school, as discussed by the committee members, the balance needed to conduct the school, amounting to a fraction over two hundred dollars, was pledged by Dr. McClellan, who said he would enlist the services of the citizens of the city in raising the amount.

The standpoint of school officials in moving the forty to fifty pupils of the Parish house, to be taught with the twenty-five or thirty Opportunity School, pupils of Spring Hill, is opposed by residents of Spring Hill, who state that the name applied to the Spring Hill pupils, does not coincide with that of the Parish House pupils, for the reason that they are not taught or cared for in the same way. The pupils of Spring Hill Building are those who have been retained in their school duties, school patrons say, while those of the Parish House require different attention.

A meeting of the School Board was scheduled for Wednesday morning, when the members would meet with Dr. B. R. McClellan to discuss the matter, but owing to the absence of two members, the meeting was postponed until Thursday afternoon at one o'clock, when the pledge of Dr. McClellan, and the plan reached at the meeting Tuesday, would be presented to the Board by Superintendent Waltz.

FOOTBALL COACH

ARRIVES IN CITY

Coach Earl F. Burgner, of Central High School, former Wittenberg College football, basketball and baseball star, who has been spending the summer at his home in Akron, arrived in Xenia early Wednesday morning and will make his home with Superintendent and Mrs. C. A. Waltz.

Coach Burgner has issued a first call for football material at Central High for next Monday afternoon. It has not yet been decided whether the recruits will be taken to the new gridiron at the Fairgrounds or whether they will practice the first week at the Washington Street baseball park.

Burgner expects to meet football candidates this week, and will hold his preliminary councils at that time. His coaching means that the old Ohio State system, devised by Coach Wilse of O. S. U., and introduced by Coach Jerry L. Katherman last year will again be in vogue, as Burgner receives.

ed his high school and college football training under this system.

MORE THAN 2,500 SCHOOL CHILDREN HEAR FIRE CHIEF TELL HOW TO PREVENT BLAZES; DRILLS HELD IN CITY BUILDINGS THURSDAY

Fire Chief L. B. Claire, of the city fire department, talked on fire prevention in observance of Fire Prevention Week, Thursday to 2,747 public, parochial and institution schools in Xenia.

In connection with the talks in which the Fire Chief explained common causes of fire and told of the great Chicago conflagration, the anniversary of which is celebrated this week, fire drills were held at each school with results that were satisfactory to the fire department head.

The history of the fire that destroyed a great part of Chicago in 1871 was given by Chief Claire in his talk to the children, and he used a lantern to demonstrate how the kick from the unruly hoof of Mrs. O'Leary's cow caused enormous property damage and great loss of life. He said in part:

"Chicago, a city of wood fences, and board sidewalks, that furnished ready avenues of progress for voracious flames had been in the throes of a long draught in the fall of 1871. On the night of October 7, there had been a $500,000 planing mill fire and the department had worked all night on the blaze. Everything from Clinton street to the river and from Adams street to Van Buren had been wiped out, and the men on the fire department were tired out."

"October 8 fell on Sunday and in the evening another blaze started in the cow shed of Patrick O'Leary, in the rear of 137 De Koven street. It matters not whether card players entered the place to get milk for gg-nog or whether someone upset a lantern, the fire started. Conditions were ripe for a holocaust and it came, feeding on the flammable wood, dry as a bone, and fanned by a wind like a monsoon, the fire quickly spread. Alarm after alarm was sounded and when the fire finally burned itself out, 2,200 acres had been burned over, 100,000 people were homeless and 200 had died, besides a property loss of $191,200, that had been suffered. The blaze had been burning 20 minutes before it was discovered. Among the buildings destroyed were 29 churches, 19 hotels, nine theaters and halls, depots, seven daily newspapers, 75 other publications, post office, Chamber of Commerce and the police station. The fire set people thinking fire prevention.

"There have been other fires since, very similar. Fire prevention means preventing fires. It is not a science. It is applied common sense. The same sort of fire could happen to Xenia, caused from one little match dropped through a cellar grate into paper and rubbish allowed to accumulate there from time to time."

Chief Claire was well pleased with the co-operation shown him by teachers and pupils in the schools Thursday as well as with the time made by students in vacating the buildings, Orient Hill School, with the smallest number of pupils, 61, was emptied in 40 seconds, the quickest time of any, at 10:01 o'clock Thursday morning. In a fire drill at 11:05 o'clock Thursday morning, East High pupils to the number of 187 vacated their building in 50 seconds, the next fastest time. At the Catholic School, where there are 193 students, the building was emptied in 55 seconds at 1:55 o'clock in the afternoon. An alarm at Central High at 11:25 o'clock when there were 220 students in the building, resulted in the structure being emptied in one minute and ten seconds. Lincoln Grade pupils emptied their building of 252 students in one minute and 15 seconds. At Spring Hill, 296 pupils were out of the building in one minute and ten seconds. McKinley School required only one minute and nine seconds, to be emptied of 448 pupils. At the O. S. and S. O. Home School, 580 pupils were out of the building in one minute and 50 seconds.

Chief Claire talked to pupils of the O. S. & S. O. Home on fire prevention in the chapel and when he sent the alarm in afterward the fire fighters appointed among the boys of the institution manned their equipment and laid a line of hose, their exhibition being especially pleasing to the fire department head. There are six boys on the Home Fire Department, and although all were in their classes in school when the alarm sounded, they laid a water line with water in two minutes and 35 seconds. There are 17 water plugs on the ground, to which these volunteer firemen can attach hose lines.

GOOD TURNOUT FOR PARADE IN DAYTON IS NOW EXPECTED

Dr. C. H. Denner is anxious that a good representation of the Third Battalion of the 148th, Infantry, a unit of the Thirty-seventh division, be present for the parade of the outfit next Monday in connection with the American Legion state convention in Dayton.

Several Xenia and Greene County soldiers were members of this unit of the Thirty-seventh, which was one of the most important combat divisions of the American Expeditionary Forces. It was the Third Battalion of the 148th, that was first to cross the Scheldt of Escaut River, as it is some times called, in Belgium.

The river was forded November 2, 1918, the handful of men, representing the remnants of two companies, in charge of Lieutenant Cullen of New Lexington, representing the first allied troops to set foot on the other side of the stream. Although Cullen and his 40-soldiers repulsed two infantry attacks after a severe battle and airplane fire, the French brigade that replaced them a few days later was captured entirely by the Germans.

Company L, Xenia's unit in the old Third Ohio National Guard infantry, later became a part of the Thirty-Seventh, and was credited to full strength in this section. The Battalion has been accorded a place in honor in the Thirty-seventh Division parade, and former members are asked to be on hand. Dr. Denner was a Captain in medical detachment connected with the Third Battalion.

GOING IT TOO HARD?

Overwork, worry, overeating and lack of exercise and sleep are responsible for much kidney trouble. If your back aches and the kidneys seem weak, rest up and use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Leonard Jones, car inspector, Home Ave., Xenia, gave the following statement Aug. 2, 1917: "Heavy lifting and working in a cramped position while repairing cars brought on lumbago. I was stiff and lame across the small of my back. After I had worked in a cramped position for a few minutes I could hardly straighten up. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and began to use them. They certainly proved to be the medicine I needed for I began to get better immediately and after using a few boxes was rid of this attack. Since then I have resorted to Doan's at the first symptom of lumbago and they quickly relieve it."

On Aug. 15, 1921, Mr. Jones confirmed the above statement by saying: "Doan's deserve the highest praise I can give them as they absolutely cured me of kidney trouble some years ago."

DELAY KINDERGARTEN OPENING

Mrs. Charles Davis who conducts a kindergarten at her home on North Galloway Street, is announcing that she will not open her school until October 2, due to the warm weather.

Between twenty and twenty-five young pupils are expected by Mrs. Davis to attend the school during the winter, this number being twice that of last year.

Miss Doris Meahl, who taught the little folks last year will continue her instruction this year, having completed a special course of study this summer.

SOLVED THE PROBLEM

"I was almost distracted with stomach trouble, gas and colic attacks and didn't know what to do. I had tried everything I heard of, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend told me about May's Wonderful Remedy, and I can now eat anything and have no distress." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

CLEANING YOUR ROOMS THE RIGHT WAY

Many women, in cleaning a room, make more work for themselves than necessary. For instance, I once watched an inexperienced housekeeper clean her floors, then use a wool mop on her walls, with the obvious result that the clean floors received a fine sprinkling of dust and needed to be done over again!

Of course few of us make such glaring mistakes. Yet, for the sake of the Beginner Housekeeper, I am going to give the following suggestions:

Step One: Dust and remove all bric-a-brac from the room. Clean the large rugs with a vacuum cleaner, but take the small ones out of doors to receive a thorough sweeping and shaking. Also apply the vacuum cleaner attachments to upholstered furniture.

Step Two: Cover the cleaned upholstered furniture with sheets, and roll up the large cleaned rugs, covering them with newspapers. Now brush your curtains with a soft brush to dislodge dust which may cling to them, and pin them back. Cover a broom with a white broom-bag (or use a clean white wall mop) and go over the ceiling and walls. Dust back of all pictures with a soft-brush as you clean the walls.

Step Three: Having brushed down ceiling, walls, picture-backs, gone into crevices in woodwork if necessary, and used a long-handled brush on the radiator, the next step is to go over the bare wood floor with a soft-haired brush and sweep all the dust into a pile in the middle; take up this pile by brushing it onto newspapers (to be burned later), then go over the floor with an oiled mop. If furniture or woodwork is to be especially polished, now is the time to do such work. Floors are also waxed at this stage.

The work is now practically finished. All that remains is to uncover the furniture and rugs, bring back the small rugs from outside, replace bric-a-brac, and clean the vacuum cleaner and the other tools of work before putting them away in the cleaning closet.

There is a very real satisfaction in "doing things right." A room cleaned thoroughly and efficiently, as I have just described, can defy the inspection of the most critical.

I have not mentioned the garb of the housekeeper who does such cleaning, for I have assumed that even an inexperienced housewife would don a sweeping cap and voluminous apron before attempting such work.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

YOUTH CALLS TO YOUTH

Chapter 63

As the days passed Nellie constantly congratulated herself on having obtained a room at Mrs. Doty's. Not that she mingled with the other boarders, in fact she seldom saw them excepting at meals—save Mrs. Roberts, to whose room she had been invited—but they were all politely pleasant to her, and she enjoyed the morning and evening chatter about the big table. Chatter that touched upon every subject, from the way things should be cooked and served, to the political situation, both foreign and domestic.

When young Horne, Nellie had learned his surname was Donald, was at dinner they often appealed to him, and Nellie thought his knowledge marvelous. She had encountered him two or three times in the hall and he had stopped to chat. Nellie had told him she was a stenographer, that she was with the same firm as Miss Jones. Then one night they both came in at the same time. He topped her rather awkwardly and said:

"I have two tickets for a new show, would you go with me, Miss Riley?"

"Would she?"

"They're good seats," he went on. "Even if they are passes."

"Thank you, I should love to go," Nellie replied with her usual directness. "Aren't passes just as good as any tickets?"

Better, because they cost me nothing, I couldn't afford orchestra seats to this show. They're way beyond my purse."

"What is it?"

The "Music Box Revue."

"Oh, really! I have wanted to see that awfully. What time shall I be ready?"

"About 8 o'clock. I'll meet you in the parlor." A small room used as a meeting place for the guests when socially inclined.

Nellie ate her dinner in a glow of anticipation. She had thought perhaps to see the "Revue" from the gallery, but to go with a nice-looking young man like Donald Horne; to sit in the orchestra, would be so much nicer.

She dressed with care, wearing a dark frock, but one a trifle low in the neck, fresh gloves, and dainty shoes. She brushed her bobbed hair more carefully than usual urging each refractory curl in place. Then, just as the hands on her wrist watch pointed to eight, she went down to the parlor unoccupied save by the acid-faced young woman, Miss Pitt, who remarked:

"It don't take some folks long to get acquainted."

"Some never do," Nellie saucily replied.

"I wasn't brought up to go gadding about alone with young men."

"Too bad—perhaps you might learn to now if they would ask you."

Donald appeared, and any reply Miss Pitt may have intended was effaced by the smile she gave him, and the remark addressed to him:

"I hope you will enjoy yourself, Mr. Horne."

"I know I shall!" Donald replied gayly. "How charming you look, Miss Riley. I guess we'd better run along."

"Old cat!" Nellie said to herself as she left the room. "Doesn't have a good time herself and doesn't want any one else to."

Donald Horne was a delightful companion, a gay natural fellow whose aspiration to be a newspaper editor he confided to Nellie.

"Oh, —how wonderful!" She never had been thrown with anyone connected with the literary world and to her it was one of wonderful attraction.

"Oh, I'm nothing but a cub reporter now, but they all had to start some way," he told her.

She admired his ambition, his unassuming manner. She also admired him. He had left off the goggles for a pair of nose glasses, wore a dinner coat, and was a well turned out looking young man. Never before had Nellie gone out with anyone who wore a dinner coat save old Mr. Robinson.

"I wish Cora could see us," she thought.

They both enjoyed the play immensely, and it was the beginning of a friendship between them, one that led to outings of different sorts—plays when Donald had passes, motion pictures when he had not.

Mrs. Roberts smiled as they chaffed each other across the table, admired Nellie when she ran in to bid her goodnight before they went out, and often gave her good advice in a quiet way.

When Cora heard from Nellie of these outings, of Donald, she smiled contentedly. Nellie's admiration for Mr. George Fallon had meant nothing after all. She hoped Nellie would marry this young Horne who, Miss Jones had told her was a very worthy young man.

GREECE FURNISHES BURNING PROBLEMS; FIREMEN SOLVE IT

Greece still furnishes a burning problem.

For Greece was under fire Friday morning, though not from Turkey. Perhaps it would be better to say, grease was fired by Greece. At any rate grease met Greece, in the little kitchen of the New Manhattan restaurant and both went up in smoke, as firemen fought, one of the hottest blazes in months in the two-by-four galley.

Maybe it was grease from turkeys that covered the range, flues and walls of the little kitchen and maybe it was grease from some other edible. At any rate, it burned right merrily until firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals. The loss amounting to about $50, was covered by insurance held by J. D. Steele owner of the building on North Detroit street, in which the restaurant is located.

Firemen agreed with Turkey that a little grease goes a long way. Side-walk punters even went so far as to crack the one about Greece making a lot of smoke.

Firemen however, settled the trouble, which is more than the League of Nations is doing.

Styles BY LENORE

Not the least fascinating of things shown in Paris this season are the lovely bodice robes. Of course it is to be expected that odd sleeves would be one of the characteristic features in a season when ingenuity in sleeves plays an important part in fashions. In many of the models the sleeves extend to the hem, and in some instances they are long enough to trail gracefully in walking.

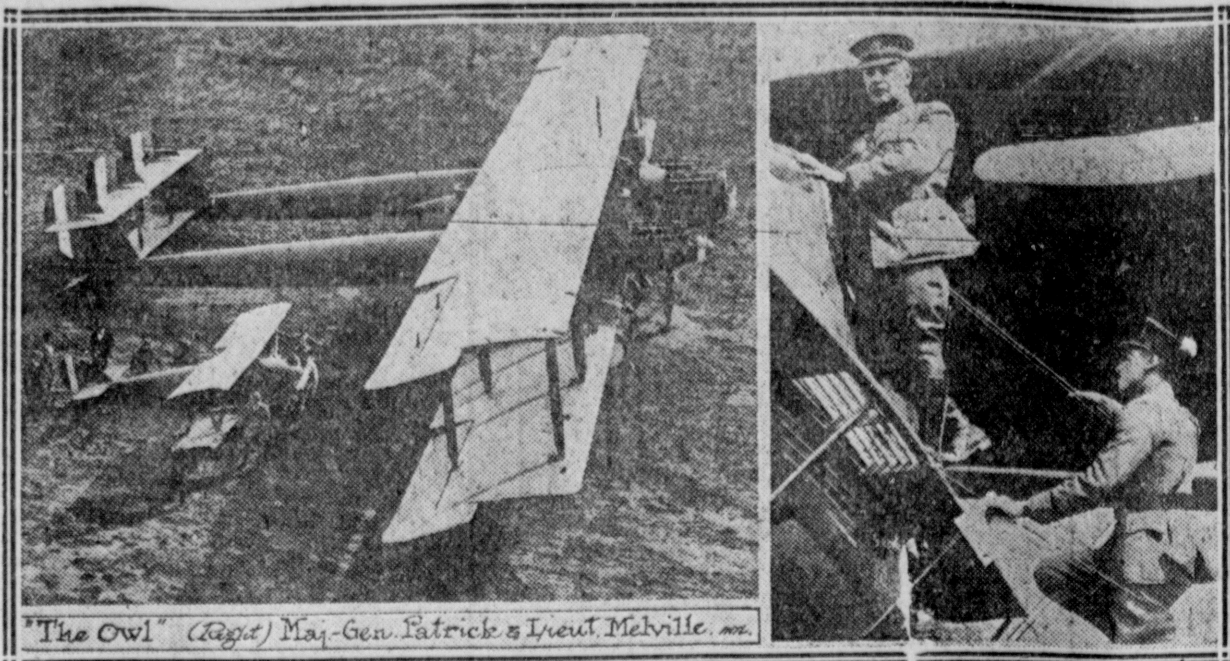

Medieval sleeves are a feature in other models. These are shirred closely for several rows into a long dropped shoulder, and hang loose at the finger tips. Embroidery and beading are used, but most of all exquisite color motifs are employed to give charm and picturesqueness to lady's robe in time.

A seductive color combination was used for the model shown. It was made of satin in a blush rose shade, and the long, graceful cape which is brought around over the arms in front to serve as sleeves, was lined in mauve. Crystal beads decorated the centre and hem.

CEDARVILLE NEWS

Some of the College students attending the football game were: Lois Cummings, Betty Gifford, Wilma Arnett, Marjorie Wright, Freida Crowell, Lena Hastings, Mabel Strowbridge, Bee Watson, Arthur Wallace Finley, Cecil Ewhanks, Forest Nagley, Earl Richards, Willard Kyle, June Thompson and Charlotte Lewis. The Misses Eloise Davis and Marjorie McClellan spent the week end with Miss Ruth McPherson of Dayton and attended the Cedarville-Dayton game.

Miss Wilma Arnett spent the week end with Miss Margaret Weller of Spring Valley.

A few of the College students were entertained by Miss Kathleen Blair, at her home on Xenia Ave. Friday evening.

College night at the Reformed Presbyterian Church, was well attended Sabbath evening, when Mr

Gavin Reilly gave a very interesting sermon.

Between forty and fifty students enjoyed a feed at Bryan's farm, Monday evening. The crowd met at the home of Miss Florence Smith and went from there to the farm in a large truck. After having a good social time together the crowd then enjoyed a weiner roast, departing for Cedarville at a late hour.

A College Orchestra is now being organized. Miss Lucille Johnson was elected director. Mr. Forrest Nagley was elected, secretary and treasurer and Mr. Donald Wickersham, sergeant at arms.

Seniors re-elected old officers at a meeting Tuesday. Earl Collins, president, Marjorie McClellan, secretary and treasurer.

On the last Thursday evening of September, the College "Y. M. C. A." had a chicken feed at Dr. Richards' parlors. After a bountiful dinner the party was favored by an address by Rev. Stevens, who emphatically urged the work of the association to the limit. An invitation was then extended to the new boys of the college to become members of the "Y."

The enrollment of the student body is still increasing. With the enrolling of Mr. Harold Ray of Xenia the student body has reached the total of one hundred and eight.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night.

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Get it at Donges. 8-16-11

There will be home made cakes at Bradstreet's Grocery Saturday. Try one for your Sunday dinner.

The date of the meeting of Greene County Teachers' Association at the McKinley School auditorium, is Saturday, October 7, instead of Oct. 17.

BABY CLINIC IS GROWING RAPIDLY; INFANTS IMPROVE

The largest class of infantile students in health, was held Thursday at the Social Service League, under the auspices of the Xenia Kiwanis Club, since the clinic opened.

Eight babies, healthier and happier since their last visit received thorough examinations, their mothers being given instructions on how to keep them gaining in weight and other fundamental health facts.

The gain of the babies, since the opening of the clinics, has been nothing short of miraculous according to Dr. H. C. Messenger and Mrs. Margaret Kelly, in charge of the clinics. Their gain in weight, and general health is due to the obedience of the mothers in following the instructions and prescriptions issued at each clinic by Dr. Messenger and Mrs. Kelly.

Among the tiny tots at the clinic for examination Thursday was the first perfect child received during the series, the four months old child of an East End family, who was one hundred percent in weight and general proportions.

The pictures of the babies that were undernourished were taken by Mrs. Carrie I. Robertson, secretary of the League, Thursday, in order to compare their appearance at the present with the time when they will be dismissed from the clinic.
